

Universities Association for Lifelong Learning

Annual Conference 2013

20 - 22 March 2013 Durham University

Who and what are universities for? Local communities, global competitiveness and the part-time student

Research, Policy and Practice

- keynote presentations: national and international perspectives on current issues
 - seminar/workshops: a large programme on practice, research and policy
 - poster sessions on innovative projects
 - opportunity for networking and sharing experiences
- Conference Dinner in Durham Castle including book launch, UALL awards ceremony

The Conference will be of particular interest to policy makers, senior management, academic providers and administrators in lifelong learning both nationally and internationally.

Further information will follow. In the meantime please make sure your colleagues know of this event and put the dates in your diary.

Call for Papers

The UALL Conference has a reputation for offering opportunities for practitioners and researchers to present their work to the academic community. Proposals for papers and poster sessions are invited on the conference theme. They may describe and discuss innovative developments and practice, and/or empirical or theoretical research. Please send your proposal of no more than 300 words by 30 December 2012 to Lucy Bate at admin@uall.ac.uk

It is anticipated that a proposal for a special issue of a refereed journal will be submitted following the conference, and presenters will have the opportunity to submit full papers for consideration for publication.

The Conference venue is the Calman Learning Centre, a dedicated high-quality facility on the University campus. Accommodation is in either standard student study bedrooms (en suite) or in the Marriott Hotel in the city, some ten minutes walk from the venue.

Universities
Association for Lifelong Learning